

JOB SEARCH • GY FIT

You read the JD. A recruiter reads it differently.

Same words, different eyes.
Here's what they actually see
— so you can too 🙌

Job Description

what a recruiter really scans

MUST-HAVE vs NICE-TO-HAVE

Don't disqualify yourself on the optional stuff.

HARD FILTER

"Required", "must have", "minimum" — miss these and the ATS drops you.

STILL APPLY

"Preferred", "bonus", "a plus" — you can land it without every one.

 Most freshers self-reject on a 'nice-to-have'. Apply if you hit the must-haves.

MIRROR THE KEYWORDS

Use their exact words — the ATS matches literally.

JD says: 'client servicing'

your resume: 'client servicing'

JD says: 'MS Excel'

your resume: 'MS Excel'

JD says: 'field sales'

your resume: 'field sales'

 If the JD says 'client servicing', don't write 'customer handling'. Match it.

READ BETWEEN THE LINES

The words underneath the words.

“Fast-paced” — expect context-switching & change.

“Wear many hats” — it’s a small team; you’ll do a bit of everything.

“Self-starter” — little hand-holding — you’ll set your own pace.

 Decide if that’s the environment you actually want — before you say yes.

READ IT THEIR WAY

A JD is a cheat sheet, if you know how.

- 1 Must-have = hard filter
- 2 Nice-to-have ≠ disqualified
- 3 Mirror the exact keywords
- 4 Tailor for THIS role
- 5 Read the subtext
